Photo This: Ghosts of Mini-Golf Past Posted by John de Dios on Friday, April 2, 2010 at 9:57 PM Tags: Joshua Morgan , Magic Carpet Golf, Speedway, Long exposure , ghosts April 10, 2009 at 22:12 MST - Updated June 18 at 5:05 AM If you were worried about the fate of those larger-than-life images nestled on the grounds at Magic Carpet Carpet Don't worry anymore. Most of the cherished Tucson structures will be safe and have been purchased from people in the Valley of the Moon by business owners or private residents. The public will be able to see the will of the bull and the tiki head. As for the Buddha, the ostrich and the monkey, well those will rest in private houses. The tiki head is currently located in The Hut on Fourth Avenue. The bull will eventually settle in the parking lot at O'Shaughnessy's Supper Club near Tanque Verde. The buyers of those relics examined their purchases Friday, sizing them up for transportation. Charlie Spillar of Valley of the Moon says the images each represent their own unique challenges. The monkey statue had to be cut in half for safe movement. Movers tried to transplant the Buddha, but failed when they realized that the illuminated piece of concrete was too high. It has been abandoned since at least the 1980s or 1990s. Does anyone know the name or history of this place? [map] Magic Carpet Golf [gone]Tucson, AZ Magic Carpet Golf had two incredible golf courses. The first was built in 1969 and the second in 1970. They were designed by Lee Koplin who also built the Goofy Golf Courses in Guerneville, CA and in Florida (Panama City Beach, Pensacola and Fort Walton Beach). All four of these courses still survive and have many of the same images as those in Tucson. Michael Kautza built the grades on this course according to Koplin's designs. The Magic Carpet Golf in Tucson closed in 2008. Most of the statues were moved to nearby businesses and homes. However, the Sphinx was destroyed. Some statues were moved to the Valley of the Moon. The sign was restored and reinstalled at another location in the city. It is about 20 meters wide and 12 meters high. The letters originally had flashing lights instead of neon. The vinyl spirit may have been a later replacement or addition. Lee Koplin also built a Goofy Golf in Biloxi, MS in 1957. This course was later demolished and replaced by Koplin with a Magic Golf. It was completely destroyed by Hurricane Katrina in 2005. There are other Magic Carpet Golfs with original Koplin figures in Carmelian Bay & South Lake Tahoe, CA, Reno, NV and Galveston, TX. There another in Osage Beach, MO which has been demolished. For more information, see these websites: 1, 2, 3 and 4. The images below all came from the Magic Carpet Golf described above.
